

Week 5 Vocabulary Words

words from How Does the Human Brain Compare to a Computer?

adapt—to change because you are in a new situation graph—a diagram that compares numbers or amounts snatch—to take or grab something quickly heighten—to increase

vertical—straight up and down

reaction—a response

fascinating—to hold one’s attention

flexible—able to change

perform—to do or carry out a task

hardwired—connected by cables or cords

Week 5 Vocabulary Words

words from How Does the Human Brain Compare to a Computer?

adapt—to change because you are in a new situation

graph—a diagram that compares numbers or amounts

snatch—to take or grab something quickly

heighten—to increase

vertical—straight up and down

reaction—a response

fascinating—to hold one’s attention

flexible—able to change

perform—to do or carry out a task

hardwired—connected by cables or cords